

Safeguard Force: Dorset Volunteers Unite to Enhance

Community Safety - Dorset, UK.

Safeguard Force, a dedicated group of volunteers from Dorset, is making strides in enhancing community safety by patrolling hotspot areas, collaborating with local police, and raising awareness of their presence. While doing this insured and within the inside of the law.

Comprising of volunteers from diverse backgrounds—including security professionals, ex-military personnel, first aid responders, and concerned residents, Safeguard Force is a non-political, inclusive initiative focused on protecting all community members, regardless of race or religion.

Formed to provide a visible, reassuring presence, Safeguard Force volunteers dedicate their time to patrolling areas identified as high-risk, reporting incidents, and supporting Dorset Police efforts.

The group is committed to fostering a safer environment through proactive engagement and community cooperation.

In an innovative step, Safeguard Force is developing the Safeguard App, an SOS-style system designed to allow locals to signal for help if they feel vulnerable in public.

Additionally, the group is partnering with local transport companies to provide safer night-time travel options, ensuring residents can move with confidence.

Since its inception, Safeguard Force has seen rapid growth, with all volunteers undergoing rigorous Enhanced DBS checks and first aid training to ensure professionalism and reliability.

The group's commitment to inclusivity and community welfare has resonated widely, attracting professionals and locals alike who share a passion for safety.

“We're here to support our community and work alongside the police to make Dorset a safer place for everyone,” said Gary Bartlett, a Safeguard Force coordinator. “Our volunteers are driven by a shared goal to protect and reassure, and we're excited about the impact our app and transport initiatives will have.”

For more information about Safeguard Force or to get involved, Please contact Myself
Safeguard Force is a volunteer-led initiative in Dorset focused on enhancing community safety through patrols, collaboration with local authorities, and innovative solutions like the Safeguard App.

Comprising professionals and locals from all walks of life, the group is dedicated to creating a safer, more connected community.